CAMUSAT SIGNS A MAJOR CONTRACT IN MALI FOR THE DEPLOYMENT OF A NATIONAL DIGITAL TERRESTRIAL TELEVISION (DTT) NETWORK

On December 20th, 2018, CAMUSAT, alongside PHENIXYA-THOMSON BROADCAST, has signed a major contract with the government of Mali for the deployment of a nationwide Digital Terrestrial Television (DTT) turnkey network roll out.

This assignment will include the supply, installation and commissioning of 51 broadcasting sites as well as an earth station. This significant development project will provide a reliable and high-quality audiovisual system to the Malian population.

The Camusat Group is strengthening two of its five business lines during this crucial time where broadcasting and DTT are booming on the African continent.

The Camusat Group has already mobilized teams and resources for this endeavor through its historical Malian subsidiary.

Following a signed protocol agreement June 2018, negotiations and clarifications, Thomson Broadcast, alongside partner Camusat, formalizes its commitment with the Malian government through a signed contract for the deployment of a nationwide, end-to-end Digital Terrestrial Television (DTT) turnkey roll out.
